SECTION 01

Chairman's message

Renewing programmes through the four centres.

Mr Barney Lau
CHAIRMAN

Over the last 37 years, BGST has been equipping ambassadors for Christ in both churches and marketplaces. Recognising the growing complexities and challenges in church ministries and marketplace practice, we began our journey of transformation in 2024 to become 'More than a Seminary'. This saw the launch of 4 centres of learning to design and provide a wider range of training for church ministry and marketplace professionals.

The Centre for Postgraduate Studies (CPS) has been BGST's main channel of equipping our local churches. It has now been redesigned around three key learning pathways: Cultivating Self, Ministering to Others, and Reaching the World. Our primary focus over this last year has been implementing these new pathways well, and integrating the pathways into the new MATIS and MDiv programmes. BGST currently trains more than 220 marketplace Christians, pastors, ministry staff and missionaries annually through CPS. Pray with us that God will grant us wisdom and discernment to implement these pathways faithfully, so that more Christians, churches, and mission fields may be blessed.

The Centre for Spiritual Formation (CSF) was launched with the conviction that Christian discipleship consists of developing two loves: an assurance of Christ's love for us, which, in turn, motivates us to love our neighbours. CSF's flagship is the Certificate in Spiritual Accompaniment (CSA) – a 4 months programme designed to equip Christians with the basic skills of journeying with others and helping them to discern God's love and work in their lives. Our first 2 cohorts have trained 38 graduates who are beginning to see how their learning is impacting the way they lead and guide others at work.

> The CSA programme deepened my intimacy with God, helping me recognise my belovedness and understand discernment as a relational journey. I learned to step aside, quiet my own agenda, and become more sensitive to the Holy Spirit's leading—trusting that God is at work as I listen and journey with others.
> – May Lim, University Educator.

For God's kingdom to flourish, we need good servant leaders in both our churches and marketplaces. The goal of the Centre for Christian Leadership (CCL) is to nurture the next generation of servant leaders who will not only exemplify Christ's love and integrity in their organisations but are capable of leading their teams well. Over the last year, we piloted 2 Purpose Workshops to help young working adults flourish at work and discern their vocation wisely. We also supported a local denomination's strategic planning by facilitating dialogues between its pastors and its congregations' board members. Pray with us as we seek to recruit a suitable leader to lead the centre and develop its longer-term strategic goals.

While churches seek to provide holistic discipleship for Christians, this remains a daunting task due to churches' ever-growing burden of pastoral care and limited resources. BGST believes that we can support our local churches by curating and developing good quality digital videos and learning resources for their small groups. This is the mandate for our Centre for Equipping and Discipleship (CED). To date, we have launched 8 courses ranging from Biblical Interpretation, Prayer to Healing Conversations and Leadership. These are now being pilot tested with 11 partner churches from different denominations. It is our hope that their continued feedback and collaboration will enable BGST to improve our courses and support for local churches.

Finally, I am grateful to report that BGST has completed our relocation to CT Hub in January 2026. The new campus – BGST Nexus – has been purpose built to support the training and production requirements of each of the 4 centres. We look forward to stewarding these facilities well so that BGST can support local churches in their mission of discipling effective ambassadors for Christ in the churches and marketplaces.

Over the past year, the implementation of the 4 centres and the relocation has been a journey of faith where we witnessed God's gracious and timely provisions! Pray with us that we will steward BGST Nexus well to not only bless our students but also provide hospitality to other parachurches. Pray also for love, wisdom and courage as we continue to develop BGST to become 'More than a Seminary'. Most importantly, pray that the BGST team may walk with humility, faith, love, and wisdom, persevering with trust in God's leading as He unfolds the next chapter of this journey.

Mr Barney Lau
CHAIRMAN, BGST COUNCIL

SECTION 02

Principal's message

The answer lies in collaborative partnerships with the body of Christ.

Dr Lai Pak Wah
PRINCIPAL

> What is the role of an ambassador? It is to exemplify and advocate for the values and beliefs of the nation he represents. This is BGST's aspiration for every Christian, that they would be effective ambassadors for Christ wherever He calls them to: at their workplaces, churches and the communities they serve in.

Over the last two years, BGST has been undergoing a process of transformation to become 'More than a Seminary'. To be able to meet and equip Christians where they are, in their diverse contexts and settings as Christ's ambassadors. This requires BGST to not only redesign how we conduct our postgraduate education but also develop new forms and approaches to training.

This is hardly a walk in the park. Most of our faculty are classically trained theologians, and the school itself was built largely as a postgraduate institution. How then do we then reinvent ourselves to become 'More than a Seminary'? How can we develop our four centres of learning effectively? The answer lies in collaborative partnerships with the body of Christ. Our faculty must also evolve in the way we educate and develop new pedagogical skills: by becoming curators and facilitators, in addition to theological lecturers.

When the Centre for Postgraduate Studies (CPS) launched its new programmes in mission studies and Christian ministry, we knew that we do not have sufficient in-house expertise and practical experience in both areas.

In Asia alone, more than 4 billion people have yet to come to faith. To equip Christians to take the gospel worldwide and send missionaries effectively, we engaged Mr Yeoh Seng Eng to design our new missions track to provide a holistic formation programme in theology, spirituality and cultural engagement. An important aspect of this design is our partnership with missions practitioners to teach our missions electives. This begins to integrate academic rigour with practical perspective and wisdom – something we wish our students to demonstrate as well.

BGST has begun to apply this academic + practitioner approach to our Christian ministry pathway as well. 2026 marks the year when Singapore officially becomes a super aged society. Amid global tensions and local insecurities, mental wellness challenges continue to escalate. These, alongside manifold pastoral care needs, mean that our pastors and ministry workers are often stretched beyond their means. BGST's hope is that we can support churches by equipping Christians who can understand and offer pastoral care alongside and in support of their pastors. This is achieved through our Christian Ministry courses, which equip Christians with foundations for Christian ministry and pastoral care skills in a wide range of issues from family conflicts and sexuality to aging and palliative care.

The same partnership mindset is assumed in our Centre for Spiritual Formation (CSF). Spiritual formation is a long-drawn process where Christians not only learn the principles of formation intellectually but also hone spiritual habits that will cultivate their intimacy with Christ and godly virtues. All these require not only the support of peer learning circles but also the guidance of Spiritual Directors (SDs). Recognising the strategic importance of SDs, BGST has been developing our SD pool since 2024. Over the last year, we grew our team of associate SDs from 5 to 9. We also developed a code of conduct and terms of reference to govern its practice in BGST, which we hope may also contribute to the development of general SD practice in Singapore. We hope to double our SD team over the next four years.

In a similar vein, the Centre for Christian Leadership (CCL) seeks not to develop its ministry by building substantial in-house leadership training expertise. Recognising that God has blessed the Singaporean church with a large number of Christian executive trainers and Organisational Development consultants, we hope instead to develop CCL into a platform where these marketplace Christians can offer their gifts and talents to serve the local churches and Christians.

Likewise, the Centre for Equipping and Discipleship (CED)'s vision of providing a wide range of holistic short digital learning courses for churches can never be achieved on BGST's own strength. We are working with pastors, theologians, counsellors, marketplace professionals, etc. to curate their collective wisdom so that local churches, no matter how big or small, can access these teachings in their small groups, at their own pace.

Finally, BGST moved into our new location at CT Hub in January 2026. Coined "BGST Nexus", it is designed to support all 4 centres well. Besides new classrooms for our CPS, BGST Nexus is also equipped with a multi-purpose recording studio for our CED, and Spiritual Direction rooms for CSF. A multi-use community space is also designed for CCL workshops. Our students taking courses for credit finally have a conducive space to study and collaborate, with free access granted by their student cards.

This has been a huge faith journey for us. Thanks to God's provision and your generous contributions, we are able to move into BGST Nexus debt-free. A total of $498,000 was raised, out of a target of $500,000, for the renovation of BGST Nexus. On behalf of the BGST team, we would like to thank all our supporters for your prayers, encouraging words and donations for this project!

As we embark on the next phase of transforming BGST to equip ambassadors for Christ, we seek your prayers for continued humility, love, wisdom and courage to develop new forms of training to serve the church and the marketplace.

Testimonies from graduates

Chang En Qi
Graduate Certificate in Theological Studies

Through this programme, I gained a wider view of how God has worked throughout history to spread His glory, especially through the Christian history modules. I also learned much about reading and interpreting God's Word through Hermeneutics. The spirituality modules opened my eyes to dimensions of God that were previously unfamiliar to me. They were especially meaningful, as I learned practices such as Lectio Divina and grew in hearing and discerning God's voice, guided by a spiritual director.

Poon Gek Ruang, Lilian
Graduate Diploma in Christian Studies

My recent studies in different forms of spirituality have helped me see myself more clearly and identify areas for growth in my spiritual formation. I am especially thankful for courses such as Asian Religions and Christian Perspectives on Culture, which broadened my understanding of how we engage with the world around us. More recently, my class on Spiritual Care and Formation has helped me dive deeper into personal growth.

Phua Yunshi, Sarah
Master of Divinity

My studies have shaped me by confronting the gap between what I know, what I preach or teach, and how I live, drawing me into a more integrated life of theology, ministry, and love for God. Many lessons have impacted me, but one recent teaching module stood out. It presented teaching in the church as an act of service, where Scripture, tradition, and the Spirit work together to make truth accessible without oversimplifying it, so the church remains rooted, discerning, and faithful.

SECTION 09

Fundraising and development

Building support, advancing our mission.

This past year has been a deep reminder of God's provision and the constant support of our BGST family through a season of big transitions.

At our Annual Luncheon, we took guests on a meaningful journey to look back at BGST's journey since we first started in 1989. Tracing our history across the years reminded us all of God's faithfulness in every physical move and season of growth.

Much of our focus this year was on getting our new campus ready. Thanks to the generosity of our donors, our fundraising campaign for the BGST Nexus renovation successfully met its goal. While waiting for the renovations to finish, we were immensely grateful to Covenant Evangelical Free Church, who kindly opened their doors and let us use their meeting room as a temporary office so our work could continue.

We officially moved into BGST Nexus in January 2026, followed by a Dedication Service on 14 February 2026 to commit the new space to the Lord.

We are deeply thankful to everyone who prayed, gave, and stood by us during this transition. As we settle into BGST Nexus, we look forward to how God will use this space to equip believers in the years ahead.

$498,000

Raised $498,000 out of a target of $500,000 for the renovation of BGST Nexus. With thanksgiving to God, we moved in debt-free.

Give towards BGST's vision

Your giving equips the next ambassador for Christ

Every gift supports the training of marketplace Christians, pastors, ministry staff and missionaries through the four centres at BGST Nexus.

FUNDRAISING TARGET FOR AY2026/27

$1,000,000

In AY2026/27, BGST looks to God's continued provision as we work towards our fundraising goal of $1 million, which will help sustain the school's ongoing operations and mission.
